TENTATIVE EDITION

Many clubs are convinced of the advantage of studying one subject thruout the season, and for this work a carefully prepared program is needed. Local or state committees and state library commissions have spent time in preparing outlines which would be suitable for use elsewhere if they could be made available by printing. It is proposed in this series to centralize such work and to conserve the effort spent in making a good outline by putting it in shape for distribution. The outlines in this edition are printed as originally prepared and they are experimental rather than typical. Clubs themselves by an actual testing of the outlines will be able to offer suggestion and criticism which will lead to a revision of form.

The H. W. Wilson Company

The Study Outline and Its Use

The series will include outlines on art, literature, travel, biography, history and present day questions.

The outlines vary in length. If more topics are given than the number of club meetings for the season, those topics that are more difficult to handle or on which there is less available material, may be dropped. If there are fewer topics than the scheduled meetings, certain topics may be divided.

Lists of books are appended to some of the outlines. It would be well for the club to own some of the recommended books. Others can be obtained either from the local public library or from the state traveling library. When very full lists are given it is not necessary for any club to use all the books, but the longer list leaves more room for choice.

The best material on some subjects may be found, not in books, but in magazines. These may be looked up under the subject in the Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature. Magazine articles and illustrated material may be obtained from the Wilson Package Library. For terms see fourth page of cover.

A partial list of the study outlines now in print will be found on page three of this cover. For latest additions to the list write to publisher.

STUDY OUTLINE

ON

SOUTH AMERICA

This is a topical outline, intended for the use of clubs that can get a fair number of books either by purchase, or from their local library, or from their state commission.

Twenty meetings have been scheduled, and a pretty full program has been arranged for each meeting. Many clubs want but sixteen meetings, some want fewer still. The intention is that each club shall have some liberty of choice, dropping the topics that interest them the least, or that seem too difficult for them to handle, or on which they cannot easily get material.

A few references have been given under each topic, but no attempt has been made at completeness. Other books yielding excellent material may be found in the section "Bibliography." The Readers' Guide and other periodical indexes should be consulted for most of the topics. It is an excellent idea to read a summary of the topic selected, in any good encyclopedia. The Encyclopedia Britannica, the Americana and the latest edition of the New International Encyclopedia are especially recommended. Consult for latest statistics such annuals as the Statesman's Year Book.

The Bibliography lists all the books referred to under topics and some others. It does not list magazine articles. About 100 titles are included and a few of the most desirable are starred. It is not necessary that all the books referring to her topic be consulted by any club member. The list has been made long in the hope that it will thus meet the needs of more people. Some libraries and commissions will be able to furnish certain books, other libraries and commissions certain other books.

The Pan-American Union, Washington, D. C. (formerly known as the International Bureau of American Republics), has published three lists of books and magazine articles on Latin America, the last issued in 1914. Suggestions can be obtained from these for further study.

"In the publications issued by the Pan-American Union in Washington a great deal of valuable statistical information brought up to date may be found. The South American Supplements issued monthly by the London Times are well edited and constitute a useful current record of what is going forward." Bryce. South America. p. 588.

"The first eleven chapters are descriptive, being devoted to the scenery and to the social and economic phenomena of the seven republics visited: Panama, Peru, Bolivia, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil. The economic possibilities of the countries are not considered in detail, nor has the author given much space to political history or to current politics. As these first chapters individualize the separate countries, so the latter part of the book synthesizes them again as a continent by discussing their common interests and the characteristics which distinguish them as a whole from North America and Europe. The rise of new nations; The relations of races in South America; The two Americas and the relations of South America to Europe; The conditions of political life in Spanish-American republics; Some reflections and forecasts are the titles of the five chapters that make up this part."—Book Review Digest.
